

Why would consideration be given to allowing a new service that will certainly cause interference to other services. BPL will distribute frequencys in the HF bands over the entire populated ares of any towns and cities so equipped. There is no way this won't be heard by HF frequency users using AM or SSB modulation. If the whole world was digital, it might not be a problem but this is not the case.